

Czar's Picture a Reminder
To Members of the Duma

LIKE the poor whom we have always with us, the picture of the czar of Russia is constantly with the members of the duma. It hangs on the wall immediately over the president's chair, big as life, a silent but firm reminder to the members that Russia is not a republic. As our picture shows, the czar's portrait is the most prominent feature in the duma chamber. There is no chance of forgetting the ruler

Buried
In Coal

Franklin Furnace, N. J., Jan. 9.—Fighting to dig his way out of a pile of coal that threatened to engulf him, Jacob Grover, who works for the New Jersey Zinc company, wore the ends of his fingers raw by his frantic digging. He was caught in a slide of coal at the company's chute and struggled for five hours before fellow workmen discovered his plight.

WOMAN CHARGES FRAUD

Suit With an Ohio End in Progress at New York.

New York, Jan. 9.—Supreme Court Justice Amundson has refused to strike out allegations of fraud made by Mrs. Gertrude A. Hoffline, wife of a prominent Cleveland surgeon, in a suit against John B. Owens, president of the Empire Floor and Tile company, who recently removed here from Ohio, where he was a politician of influence.

In her complaint Mrs. Hoffline alleges that in 1907, when Owens was president of the Zanesville Tile company, he represented that all the $200,000 capital stock had been sold at face value for cash except $9,000 worth, and induced her to buy that. He also told her the company had earned $50,000 net profits. Mrs. Hoffline says that a few months after she bought the stock the company went into the hands of a receiver, and she not only received no dividends but has been unable to dispose of her stock.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 9.—President-elect Wilson talked politics for three hours with Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia and Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma. With his visitors, Governor Wilson went over matters to be taken up at the special session of congress, particularly the tariff and currency reform. The abrogation of the seniority rule in senate committee assignments was briefly touched upon.

BANKING LAWS

Comptroller Murray Suggests a Number of Changes.

APPEARS BEFORE PUJO PROBERS

Furnishes the Committee Such Data
From His Office as President Taft
Had Directed Him to Supply—Admits
Present Inspection of Banks
To Be Superficial, and Suggests
Publication of Lists of Stockholders.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of the currency, testifying before the Pujo committee, acknowledged that the present banking law is an archaic, illogical, unscientific and superficial statute which needs amendment in practically every clause. He was questioned by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee.

Mr. Murray furnished the committee such data from his office as President Taft had directed him to supply, which, however, was but a small part of the information which the committee asked the comptroller to furnish.

Mr. Murray condemned without reservation the practice which, he said, is a growing evil, the acceptance by directors or officers of national banks of personal compensation from borrowers to whom the funds of the bank are loaned. He said that legislation should be passed providing for criminal prosecution of the practice.

Murray favored a provision of law which would prevent the stockholders of banks from transferring their stock on the verge of collapse of their banks, and he also indorsed a scheme to force banks to make public the list of securities held as assets by national banks. Publicity of lists of stockholders in national banks, he said, would be beneficial.

Inspection Ineffective.

Questioned by Mr. Untermyer, Mr. Murray outlined the method of the examination of national banks by his office, and asserted that under the present system the inspection is "ineffective."

"It is merely a superficial examination, is it not?" asked Mr. Untermyer. "Yes, that is about all," replied the comptroller.

The comptroller said that there are about 105 bank examiners to superintend the affairs of 7,500 banks. In reply to questions he said that in New York city these inspectors worked with the bank examiners of the clearing house association and co-operated with them in connection with the appraisal of loans and securities held by banks.

Mr. Murray further said that his knowledge of clearing house associations was merely incidental. "We have received complaints from time to time from banks, who said that certain clearing house rules were detrimental to their business," he continued, "but we have always told them we had no jurisdiction."

Stock Exchange Fixes Value.

The comptroller said that bank examiners fixed the value of securities by the price on the New York stock exchange when the stocks were listed there.

"Then if the stock quotation is for a false or fictitious value, the examiner accepts it?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes," said the comptroller. Mr. Untermyer asked about the relations of the First National bank to the First Securities company and the National City bank to the National City company. Mr. Murray said his office had no record of the relation of these concerns.

"But you know that the president and attorney general have had these cases under consideration?" asked Mr. Untermyer. "Yes," answered the witness.

In Resisting Arrest.

Mt. Vernon, O., Jan. 9. — Chief of Police Rollins Clements, while attempting to arrest William Rice, colored, was struck over the head with a chair and his injuries are such that it is believed he can not recover. A desperate struggle resulted between the officer and the colored man. As the chief lay on the floor unconscious Rice bit through his glove and completely severed the index finger on his left hand. The officer went to Rice's home to arrest him on a minor charge.

Clements was formerly sheriff of Knox county. He also was a former city treasurer and is one of the most popular men in the police department.

Duty of the Laymen Not to Let Any Bill Out of the Committee That is Not Clearly Expressed and Fully Understood by Them—Representative Cowan Selected as Chairman of the House Finance Committee.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—Speaker Fwain announced he had selected Charles J. Criswell of Morrow county and Percy Tetlow of Columbiana county as members of the house judiciary committee. The significance of the announcement is that Mr. Criswell is a farmer and Mr. Tetlow is a coal miner. The judiciary committee is a lawyers' committee. Not since the first legislature met in 1803 has there been a judiciary committee of either branch which was not composed wholly of lawyers.

The speaker is fully aware of the innovation. He acted designedly. He said: "There has been much criticism of the involved phraseology of statutes, of ambiguity and unclear language."

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 9.—A sudden and serious recurrence of the illness which prostrated the Duchess of Connaught when she was in Quebec last May, and necessitated an operation at that time, has again made it necessary to remove the duchess to Montreal for treatment. She was taken on a special train and was accompanied by the Duke of Connaught, the Princess Patricia and Major Worthington and Drs. Garrow and Chipman.

No attempt is made to conceal the fact that the gravest fears are entertained as to the duchess' recovery. All social functions at government house have been canceled.

English Suffragets Taken by Surprise, but Will Hit Back.

London, Jan. 9.—The suffragets have a new grievance. They are indignant at the action of the recorder at the Old Bally in excluding women from the courtroom during the trial of three militant suffragets for the recent pillar postbox outrages, when many letters were destroyed by the pouring of paint, acid, ink, etc., in the letter boxes. The suffragets did not start any "rough house" or riot when they were barred. But this is not the last to be heard of the matter. An official of the suffragist association said: "The matter will not be allowed to end here. It strikes at the root of English justice."

Akron, O., Jan. 9.—A report from the city hospital says that Eugene Stuhldreher, who nearly shot his face off with a shotgun after firing two loads at his wife, will recover. References to Trusts Abroad In Various Lines of Capital Made by Several Witnesses—Windowglass Manufacturers Deny Existence of Combine In Their Line—All Opposed to Tariff Revision.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Talk of trusts of domestic and foreign varieties, of low wages and women toilers in industries abroad that enabled strong foreign competition with American enterprises, and of capital's great stake in the tariff tinkering, enlivened the hearing on the earthenware and glassware schedule of the Payne-Adrich law before the house committee on ways and means.

A declaration of Chairman Underwood of the committee, the Democratic leader of the house, that he was satisfied with the showing made of the keenly competitive conditions in the pottery industry, was accepted as an insurance of an undisturbed pottery tariff. All the reports of the different windowglass, stained glass, window and the plate-glass interests denied the existence of any trust in their particular business. But running through most of the testimony were references to trusts abroad in various lines of capital, a constant specter that stalked on the customs borderlines, threatening to invade this country if the tariff bars were let down.

The Glass Industry.

Former Governor William A. Stone of Pennsylvania insisted that the National Windowglass association depended in its price-making solely upon the law of supply and demand, and that if the tariff on windowglass was reduced the loss to the association would be met here by the reduction of the workmen's wages or by suspension of factories.

Stone said there are 32 windowglass factories, constituting a distinctive class that do not have today enough profit to justify a single sale at less than the current prices. He said there was an attempt about five years ago to regulate prices among the windowglass companies, but the government stepped in and successfully prosecuted and there had been no attempt in that direction since.

"The price," he said, "fixes itself. Take any product that's overproduced in this country and you will find the price running up and down until it steadies down into a principle of supply and demand."

"Isn't there any arrangement among the windowglass companies about fixing prices?" queried Chairman Underwood.

"No, sir." "It has been represented to me by purchasers that no matter what windowglass factories they send to, the quotations are always the same."

"That's true of every production, including wheat," replied Mr. Stone.

Dies From Terrible Burns

Supt. J. A. Tway, of the Children's home and Mrs. Tway are in Columbus to attend the funeral of Mrs. Tway's nephew, Clinton Badger, son of Judge and Mrs. DeWitt C. Badger. The terrible death of this promising young man of only 21 years, is one which arouses the deepest sympathy of Judge and Mrs. Badger's large acquaintance.

Young Badger was in the ash pit examining the furnace, when a lantern, which he had set down outside jarred over and the blaze ignited his clothing, greasy from work around his father's automobile.

With great difficulty the young man crawled through the narrow furnace door and ran upstairs, shouting for help. His mother and sister wrapped him in the carpet and finally smothered the flames. He was terribly burned and died Tuesday after great suffering.

For a year Mr. Badger had been studying law with his father, and previous to that time was an O. S. U. student.

Will Clean Out The Oil Well

George Kesling, of the Herods Creek Oil and Gas Co., who started the work of cleaning out the oil well at Harpers' Station, but was stopped by a restraining order issued by the court upon complaint of Wilbur P. Harper, who owns the land, has announced that the difference has been adjusted and that he will now continue the work of cleaning the well and making a test to ascertain how much it produces each day.

The court records show that a motion has been filed to dismiss the injunction proceedings instituted by the man who owns the land upon which the well is located, but the records also show that a bond was ordered in the sum of $500.

However, it is known that the trouble has been adjusted, and the work is now under way, which will be good news to all interested in watching a work which may result in a number of new wells going down in western Ross county.

Service Board Lands On Telephone Company

Decision Handed Down in Clinton County Telephone Controversy Which Is of More Than Passing Interest to Patrons of Local Companies---Rates Reduced and Company Complies With the Decision's Requirements.

A decision of more than passing importance has been handed down by the Ohio Public Service board in the case of J. S. Dewey against the Clinton County Telephone company, and an order has been issued carrying its findings into effect.

The question was over exorbitant rates and poor service rendered. The Wilmington Journal explains it thoroughly as follows:

Telephone subscribers are all aware that last spring the local telephone company issued an order equalizing its rates, as under the law it was required to do, and as this increased the monthly rental to many rural subscribers a general protest arose. Meetings were held, the matter was discussed and the result was the appointment of a committee and the employment of counsel to formulate a protest and a complaint to be filed with the Public Service Commission.

This petition protested against the rates charged rural subscribers and also complained of inadequate service.

The case was heard by the Commission, evidence being taken both in Wilmington and in Columbus. The Commission's telephone expert was sent here and he spent a week in the county thoroughly investigating the company's affairs. Counsel for both sides submitted their arguments in the form of briefs and since December 1, the case has rested in the Commission's hands. January 6, they announced their finding, which rearranges the zones fixed by the company for ten-party line service and reduces a portion of the rates.

The company's schedule made the charge for ten-party line service, within four miles of an exchange, $1 per month; from four to six miles, $1.25; six to eight miles, $1.50; eight to ten miles, $1.75; ten to twelve miles, $2.

The Commission changes this to be as follows: Within four miles, $1.00; four to eight miles, $1.25; 8 to 12, $1.50, more than 12, $1.75. Business houses 50c per month more than above schedule, which is for residences. These rates to go into effect February 1.

The Commission directs that the company furnish an individual, or single line, rural service at a reasonable rental, and to prepare and file with it such a schedule of rates by March 1.

It also orders the company to repair, replace and put in good condition all lines heretofore maintained by rural subscribers.

The company is likewise directed to install a new switch-board in the Wilmington exchange and to repair property, or replace, and put in good condition all its lines radiating out from the Sabina exchange.

Asked for an expression of opinion on the Commission's decision, the officers of the telephone company stated that while the change in its schedule of rates would materially decrease the company's revenue, yet they recognized the authority of the Commission over all public utilities and would strictly comply with its orders.

Court Saved Woman from Being Buried Without It.

Washington, D. C.—The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia forced the Police Department to give up a woman's wig so that she might not be buried without it.

Lillian Crismon died, leaving an estate, but no heirs, and the police took charge of all her belongings. Mrs. Crismon wore a wig until her last illness, when it was laid aside, and the police took charge of it as part of her estate.

When the body was ready for burial a friend was shocked to see that the wig had been left off, and he besought the undertaker to get it. The undertaker said the police would not give it up without an order from the administrator.

The Court was then appealed to, the friend's attorney was made administrator, and he went to Police Headquarters and got the wig and placed it on the dead woman's head.

WOMAN IN FREAK WIND.

Relieves Her of Her Baby, Hair Switch, Hat and "Rat."

Harrisonville, Va.—The railroad station in Shenandoah County and the neighborhood closely surrounding it was made the playground of a freakish wind. Just as a mother was boarding a Southern Railway train a gust of wind lifted her hat and carried it away. As she reached for the hat another blast swept her baby from her arms and rolled it over and over across the platform. At the same time the woman's hair was blown loose and a "rat" flew in the direction of the baby.

The train was held while the crowd helped the woman collect hat, baby, hair and rat.

THE THREE PICTURES.

“Across the sea on the banks of the river Rhine, stands a castle old and grim. Its architecture a reminder of other times and other days. Around it cling the moss and ivy vines. Centuries have come and gone since its foundation stones were laid. Within its walls have echoed many songs of mirth and joy and clinking nectar goblets. On the walls of this old castle are three pictures. Each tells a simple story.

The first is that of a soldier, clad in the uniform of his country. He holds a musket in his hands. Beneath is written this inscription: “I fight for all”. We need the soldier. He laid the corner-stone of our nation. He preserved the union of the states. He saved his country when it had to be saved. The second picture is of a priest arrayed in ministerial garb. He holds in his hands the Holy Bible. Below is written, “I pray for all.” We need the Bible, the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments to help us keep the way. The last picture is that of a man at work in his field. He holds in his hands a hoe. On his brow is the sweat of honest toil. Below is written this cheering message: “I feed them all”. Who would not be this toiler’s friend? Who would deny him the joys of a happy home? Who is so great who would not shake his hand? He who drops seed into the ground that it may grow and mature, and for each grain planted gives to the world an ear of corn, has one foot on the cornerstone of prosperity and the other on the bedrock of patriotism.

He who scatters a handful of grain in the field and in return gives loaves of bread to hungry humanity, does more to help in the great purpose of life than he who gathers only a pot of gold.”

The foregoing lines forcefully stating the worth and importance of the men who till the soil and “feed them all”, are from the pen of Hon. A. P. Sandles, secretary of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture.

Mr. Sandles is noted for his originality of thought and action and in this instance he has risen equal to his reputation in that regard.

More and more each day people are beginning to realize that the farm is the ultimate source of all value. To the soil, we may trace everything we eat and wear, every necessity and every luxury is dependent on the yield of the soil.

Nature is generous with man and has provided him here in this land of broad fertile acres the opportunity to secure all there is in life worth having.

With the realization of our vast richness in ultimate value has come more scientific farming. It is a work of brain now and recognized as the highest calling.

Without the farm the cities would starve, but the reverse is not true. The farm gives us our food and our raiment. Our soldiers, our lawyers, our preachers, our statesmen or captains of industry, our kings of finance, all depend upon the farm.

And after all, the happiest life, the life running over with contentment, with plenty and with peace is found only on the farm.

The theater of war, the forum of debate and the drive of big business are deceiving in the dividends of real happiness declared.

In the cities men seek happiness; on the farm they have it. The farm is the place. The sober sound thought of the nation which directs the course of the ship of state originates about the home fireside on the farms, the greatest citadel of real power in all this great nation.

American Women Consider Children a Great “Responsibility” to Be Shunned

By Dr. LLORENTE, Physician to the Royal Family of Spain

RACE suicide in America is largely influenced by an apparent lack of religious feeling. In Spain the average family numbers seven and eight children.

THE WOMEN OF SPAIN REGARD CHILDREN AS A JOY AND MOTHERHOOD AS A HAPPY GOD GIVEN DUTY. THE AMERICAN WOMEN APPEAR TO DISPASSIONATELY REGARD CHILDREN AS GREAT RESPONSIBILITIES TO BE SHUNNED.

The American woman puts off “these responsibilities” until it is too late; then she leads a lonely and MISERABLE OLD AGE. I think this very fact makes for a great deal of social unrest and family misery here.

The same noticeable lack of religious feeling is also noticeable among a large class of women of Paris. They have SCORNE MOTHERHOOD. They are crying for greater social liberty. They want to be free and independent to follow their individual desires, much like the rich and leisure class here. They have numerous ACTIVITIES OUTSIDE THE HOME which engage their time and interest, and they SHUN THE RESPONSIBILITY which they feel that childhood brings.

Poetry For Today

LIFE'S LITTLE THINGS.

A little flower by the wayside growing Lifted its face to God,
And passersby smile at the bit of brightness
Its beauty gave the god.

A little word in thoughtful kindness spoken
Made glad a sorrowing heart,
And those who heard it went their ways forgetting
Life's bitterness and and smart.

A little smile from one who was a stranger
Made glad a child's sad face,
And lo! it was as if a day of sunshine
Dawned in the market-place!

A little word that angry thoughts made bitter
Was spoken to a friend,
And a hurt heart ached on in grieved dumb silence
Until the long day's end.

A little frown from one of whom a comrade
Sought help in time of need Crushed the last hope of one whose heart was starving
For kindly word and deed.
These little things of life—but, oh!
how mighty
They are for good or ill—
To bless or blight—to ease another's burden,
Or make it heavier still.

Oh, be it mine by deed or word of kindness
To strengthen for the strife
Weak hands and hearts that sorely lack the courage
To make the most of life.
—Eben E. Rexford in The Christian Herald.

FARMERS' PROPERTY INSURANCE

A Question of Vital Importance.

We have been fortunate in securing the agency of one of the best insurance companies writing farm property.

The CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY of Hartford, with assets of over $5,000,000, issues to the farmer a liberal contract for fire and tornado insurance and are fair and just in their settlement of losses. “Protection in the old reliable Connecticut costs no more than questionable insurance in doubtful companies.”

If you are looking for insurance on farm property kindly call at our office in the Judy block or use the telephone and we will be glad to show you our contract with rates, terms, etc.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Fire Losses Reduced.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—The fire loss in Ohio in 1912 was less than what it was in 1911, according to a report issued by State Fire Marshal J. W. Zuber. The loss during the past year approximated $5,000,000, compared with a loss of $5,718,000 for the year before. Fires of incendiary origin were fewer during the past year than in any year since the establishment of the fire marshal's department in 1900. The department secured 85 convictions for arson in 1911 and 72 in 1912. These two years were the most successful in the number of convictions secured.

Ice Cream Rate Protest.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—That rates are far too high and that the service afforded them is poor was the gist of testimony offered before the public service commission by the Ohio Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers. The ice cream men claimed the growth of their business was retarded by delays in shipping.

Cox Resigns as Congressman.

Dayton, O., Jan. 9.—James M. Cox performed his last official act before assuming the Ohio governorship by forwarding to Governor Harmon at Columbus and Speaker Champ Clark at Washington his resignation as congressman from the Third district. The resignation is to take effect Jan. 11.

Poisons Self in Suicide Pact.

Martins Ferry, O., Jan. 9.—Wilbur Theis is dying in a hospital here from the effects of poison swallowed in a suicide pact with a girl. At the last moment the girl repented her share in the agreement, and did not try to end her life.

Killed by Fall of Slate.

Wellston, O., Jan. 9.—Emmett Barlow, 31, was instantly killed by a fall of slate in a mine of the Gorsling Coal company. He leaves three children, aged 2, 4 and 6 years.

Ansberry Would Succeed Burton.
Washington, Jan. 9.—Representative T. T. Ansberry of Defiance will be a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Burton.

Groundkeeper Electrocuted.
York, Pa., Jan. 9.—While trying to remove a live wire which had been broken from the vicinity of the grand stand at the York fair grounds, Custodian Latimer Deardorff, 58, was electrocuted.

Mexican Holidays.

There are nearly one hundred holidays in the Mexican laborer's calendar exclusive of Sundays and holidays generally observed in this country. Across the Rio Grande, every Saint's day is one of rest and as these are numerous the Mexican works a bare two hundred days each year. As his average earnings in agricultural districts are less than twenty-five cents a day in American money, his yearly income rarely exceeds fifty or seventy-five dollars. On this, however, he supports a large family as race suicide is unknown. An overseer or head man of a coffee plantation will sometimes receive as high as twenty dollars in gold a month, for which he is expected to run matters generally.

Talking Car.

Redd: “Does your automobile ever talk?”

Greene: “Well, I should say it did! Why, only yesterday we came to a sign by the roadside, which said: ‘Slow Down. Do not go over eight miles an hour.’ And, do you know, the pesky machine balked and would not go another yard!”—Yonkers Statesman.

Mexicans resemble the Japanese in that the vast majority of them eat no butter of any kind.

THE MAIN TROUBLE.

Testimony that cold storage is a great equalizer of prices is entirely correct. The trouble is that it equalizes them at top figures.

WHEN A MAN'S FIFTY.

After a man reaches fifty, “all going out and nothing coming in” describes the condition of his teeth, his affections and his hair.

OF THE BUCKEYE STATE BUILDING AND LOAN COMPANY, RANKIN BUILDING, 22 WEST GAY STREET, COLUMBUS, OHIO.

In 1912 was $1,199,456.52. The assets of the company on January 1, 1913, amounted to $6,295,542.04, all loaned on first mortgage real estate security. So carefully has this money been loaned that the Company owns no real estate whatever. This fact proves the conservatism of the Company. Five per cent paid on time deposits. A vegetarian engaged a German cook lady not long ago. His wife liked the appearance of the applicant. Her references were good and the wages she demanded not exorbitant.

"I'd like to have you come," said the lady of the house, "but perhaps you won't want to live with us. We are vegetarians and never have any meat in the house. Would you be satisfied with a vegetable diet?"

The fraulein scratched her head.

"Vell," she said dubiously, "iss beer a vegetable?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Word Blindness.

Verbal antipathies are common. Most of us hate the feel, so to speak, of certain words—"victuals," for instance. Is verbal astigmatism prevalent, too, we wonder? We never know the difference between "subjective" and "objective," and we have a high respect for writers who use those words intelligently. "Ingenious" and "disingenious" always puzzle us too.—Franklin P. Adams in Metropolitan.

$610,000 Shrinkage Because Of Less Saloons

Columbus, Ohio, January 9.—How to make up more than $610,000 loss of revenue to the state treasury and at least $1,400,000 loss of revenue to political subdivisions of the state that share in the receipts from the saloon tax is one of the questions that is bothering Governor-elect James M. Cox. Under the new license amendments there is to be heavy mortality among the saloons of the state, and the number will be reduced at least 2,000.

These figures have been given to the governor-elect, who has under consideration a direct inheritance tax under the new constitution as the method by which the state may recoup its losses. Such a law could be based on the new constitutional amendment on taxation.

By the terms of the license amendment, under which the license code must be drawn, there is a restriction on the number of saloons, the maximum being one to every 500 persons in the township or municipality which does not prohibit the sale of liquor. This exempts in the counting of population for license purposes all townships and municipalities that are dry.

Careful calculation has been made recently to ascertain the number of saloons there may be. As shown by the last semi-annual settlement of the counties with the state, there are in Ohio today 8,643 saloons, while under the new amendment there will be 6,608.

If the $1,000 tax is to remain unchanged there will be a loss of revenue of $2,035,000, of which the state gets $610,500, or 30 per cent. In 1912 the total receipts to the state treasury from the liquor traffic were $2,536,533.36, which was an increase of nearly $360,000 more than 1911. This includes the tax on saloons and a small amount of the tax collected from illegal trafficking in dry territory under the Alkin law.

The largest counties of the state will have a decreased number of saloons without exception. Counties in which the license amendment, when put into force will hit hardest are Cuyahoga and Hamilton.

Prayer services will be held at the Presbyterian church tonight, instead of at the Y. M. C. A., owing to the excursion to the Rev. Sunday meeting at Columbus.

Noted Lumber Dealer Dead

J. R. Wylie, of Chillicothe, well known throughout this community, died of heart trouble one day this week, while walking along the street near his home. He was seen to fall to the sidewalk, and bystanders supposing he had slipped on the ice, rushed to him and when he did not speak, summoned a physician, who pronounced him dead.

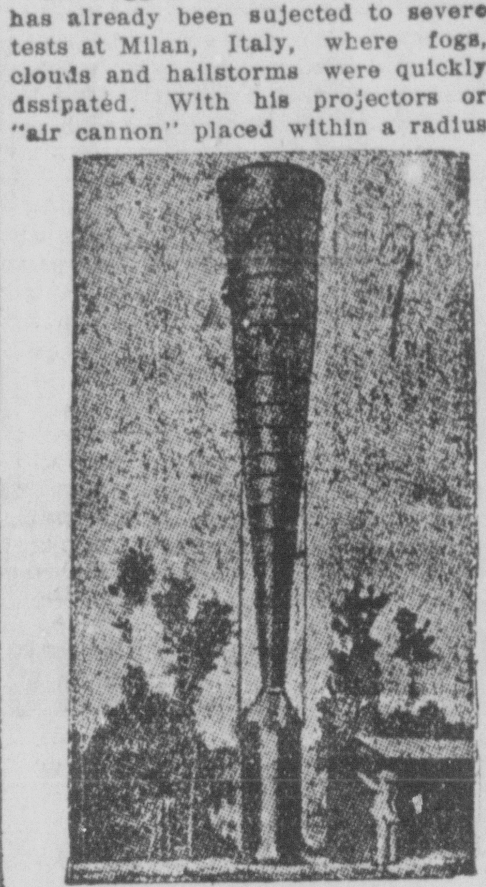

John R. Wylie was 63 years of age, and during his active career had purchased tens of millions of feet of lumber all over this part of Ohio. He formerly lived at Bainbridge, and was one of the best known lumber dealers in the state.

SCHEME TO KILL FOGS.

Air Cannon to Drive Mists Away From London.

A scheme to disperse fogs by currents of air shot over London from "projectors" six miles away has been laid before the Public Control Committee of the London County Council, and M. Demetrio Moggiola, the inventor, is ready to start experiments.

M. Moggiola says his apparatus has already been subjected to severe tests at Milan, Italy, where fogs, clouds and hailstorms were quickly dissipated. With his projectors or "air cannon" placed within a radius of six miles of the Houses of Parliament, he says he will clear away the worst fog in London within 20 minutes.

"The theory is that the fog hangs over London simply because there are no air currents to carry it away," said M. Moggiola. "Now, my projectors, acting like cannon, furnish the necessary currents of air."

Each projector, says the London Daily Mail, is about 60 feet long. An explosion is caused, as in a cannon, and the concussion has an effect for six miles. Thus, if ten or more of these were ranged over London from different directions the fog would be lifted immediately to an altitude where the wind would blow it away. After the apparatus was permanently installed the cost would be 7d. for each explosion, and 20 explosions would rid the metropolis of its densest fog. The cost for original construction would be £600.

Influence of Diet.

It is not to be denied, however, that the products of maize have been losing popularity in this country; they seem to be going out of fashion; they are a little too coarse for the tender throats of the generation that has come and the one that is coming. The tastes of the people are growing somewhat different; patent medicines and predigested foods, made of nobody knows what, seem to go together, and with these have come new forms of indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, and new causes of worry. There is an idea in the minds of the new generation that corn and all the varieties of food, all the toothsome dishes, that are derivable therefrom, are to be left to those whose tastes are common, and whose associations must be low. This, consciously or unconsciously, is the view of a considerable number of those who are to take up the destinies of the Republic and carry them a little way on their long journey; and this is curious, too, when we think of the nature of our political fabric. Are we to change our principles and beliefs by means of a change of diet?—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine.

Children on Rainy Days.

Children like to do useful things. If they must stay indoors in moist weather or during convalescence, some of the hints following may relieve the monotony:

Empty the button box or button bag into a sheet of stout paper spread on a table. Let the child string all buttons of one variety on a stout twine after fastening the first button securely near one end of the twine. When all are strung the two ends of twine may be tied in a bow knot or some knot easily undone.

Set the boys (or better, only one boy) to blacking all the shoes needing blacking. One can clean the rubber shoes or rubber boots with a sponge and soapy water.

A child can pare apples for sauce, stone raisins and crack nuts. One may shell corn ready for popping. The shelled corn may be placed in a bag of stout paper and hung by a string in a dry place.

A FALSE TEETH TRAGEDY.

Numerous people, we believe, have swallowed their false teeth, and a few perhaps been throttled by them. But the latter occurrence is so rare as to deserve passing notice. At Highbridge, in England, a man was found dead in the highway, presenting all the marks of asphyxia. His body lay near the top of a hill. The autopsy disclosed a plate of false teeth wedged tightly in his throat across the opening into the lungs. They so completely blocked the passage that no air whatever could pass, and appeared to have been held in place by the suction of the lungs.

A medical witness offered the explanation that the man was walking up the hill breathing heavily. In some way the plate was loosened and drawn forcibly into the throat by a "deep breath." It happened to fall in such a position as immediately to become tightly wedged, so that the victim was entirely unable to dislodge it. No one being about—it probably would not have made any difference if there had been, because he could not call out or even explain what had happened—he was choked to death just as effectually as if he had been garroted or drowned.

If such accidents were common it might be desirable to wear false teeth on a chain—as eyeglasses are worn—brought out of the corner of the mouth and fastened to the ear.

Masculine Shyness.

A party of well-dressed women of a certain maturity of age is encircled with an atmosphere of awe which bears witness to their consciousness of power and superiority. For a complete stranger to enter among them requires a bravery of which mere man, unless driven by absolute necessity, is often incapable.—Black and White, London.
